Throughout the year, "Scot Seasons Reflected Plaid Patterns." Students from various backgrounds displayed different ideas, talents, and fashions. As individuals, they were as different as the seasons; yet, as a student body, united together, they wove an invisible pattern of plaid which surrounded the school with spirit throughout all of its seasonal activities.

Autumn created a beautiful blend of colors which accented the beginning of another school year. Touch-downs, the tapping of honor students, and instrumental solos revealed only a part of the range of ability hidden within the walls of Highland.

Spirit warms Winter's freeze

Winter created a sparkling glow of fantasy as Highlanders were tied down with rehearsals, homework, and colds. As basketball spirit reached the highest peak, colors of the invisible pattern of plaid grew darker and richer. Academic minds turned to athletics for relaxation and to musical interpretation for inspiration.

Students pondered on the realization of a new decade; yet, below zero temperatures seemed to force them to accept responsibility and work a little harder to become a unified group—the finished product.

Spring brings patterns of allusions

Spring created a sense of accomplishment as the year ended with awards and banquets. Seniors discovered the joys and regrets of graduation, while underclassmen cherished the thought of summer vacation. Students panicked at the pressures of a final examination and merely grinned when it was all over.

The invisible pattern of plaid was complete. Highlanders had created a carpet of spirit which would long be remembered in their lives.

Academic Speakers

Speakers played an important part in Highland's academic activities. Students were fascinated by talks on subjects ranging from Child Care to Life in Lima, Peru. The background of the speakers also provided a wide range of interest. Some were well established business men, while others were our own students expressing their views on various subjects. Listening to the personal experiences of these speakers gave students the realization of the many possibilities for their future.

Student Projects

Projects often created a welcome change in the problems of learning. Typical projects this year included the construction of human cells in biology, the development of rocket fuel in physics and the designing of tie racks in shop classes. Freedom of expression gave students an opportunity to put their creativity to work. This freedom, however, often revealed a complex of new problems which kept the students aware of the vast expansion of knowledge.

Classroom

Experiments

The old adage, "It is best to learn by doing," was proven again this year as students tried their own hand at various experiments. Often the experiments ended in failure such as burning bread or failing to keep a rat alive during a live dissection. Nevertheless, the students learned from the mistakes they made and with a little practice, and a lot of patience, they found themselves capable of success.

Proper conditions result in successful experiments, just as proper learning aids in the development of successful lives.

Experimenting with soil content leads to raising better crops.

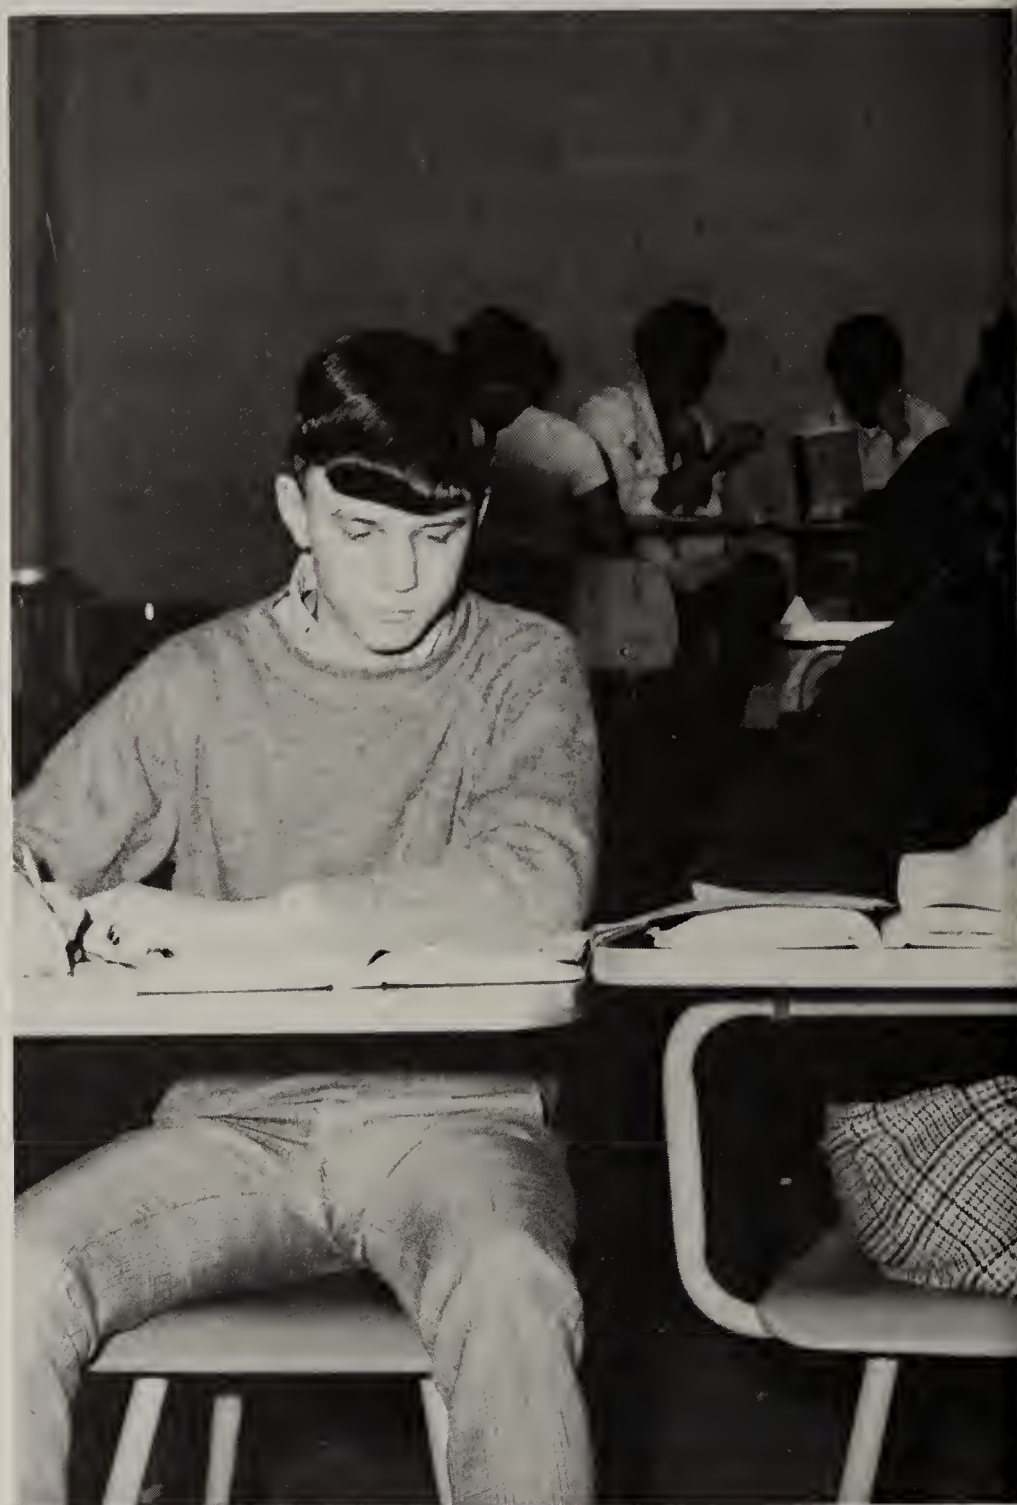

Novice shopworkers work at perfecting a mold.

Helpful guidance aids in the solving of academic problems.

A constant vigil must be kept on the progression of the teacher's explanation and the textbook's illustration.

Guidance and Learning Aids

The field of guidance provided vital assistance in directing the students' activities into constructive channels. Teachers, counselors, and learning aids helped them to understand themselves and the constantly evolving world of knowledge. The students' problems were as varied as the sizes and shapes of the students themselves. Ranging from problems in course selection to the comprehension of subject matter, each one was approached on an individual, personal, and friendly basis.

Authentic machines help prepare students for the business world.

A library assistant is an asset in finding research material.

A teacher's interpretation of difficult equations, becomes routine for Math students.

Individual and Group Testing

The results of hard work and perseverance were revealed through the diversity of testing. Testing sifted down to the most minute segment of academics—even to counting the number of air vacules in muffins. The testing techniques enabled teachers to evaluate the students' achievements. These were then recorded in such forms as: letter grades, physical fitness awards, and numerical scores. Competition, a major factor in testing, spurred students on to new goals. Ever changing records were set and these became the goals of other individuals.

Written tests provide the teacher and student with a method for measuring class progression.

Even in the age of advanced machines one often relies on fingers for counting.

Expanding the Educational Curriculum

The I.C.T. program, initiated this year, provides on-the-job training for both boys and girls.

New books, more advanced subjects, and on-the-job training has expanded Highland's curriculum coverage. As the need for knowledge increased, the academic program also had to expand to meet this rapid growth. Students who were college bound and in search of higher academic knowledge were offered a new class in calculus. Those students who wanted to attain their vocational goal earlier found that the new Industrial Cooperative Training program was best suited for them. This allowed them to obtain the required classroom credits and still receive on-the-job training in the trade of their choice.

The curriculum is constantly expanded by up-dating textbooks.

Experiences ...tradition ...memories.

Life was an exciting challenge as Highlanders turned to the world around them for education, relaxation, and entertainment. Being able to withstand the challenging academic and social pressures of Student Life was a problem many of the Scots found frustrating. Once involved, however, students found life very rewarding and satisfying with every day bringing a new and enlightening experience in living.

Various clubs, school activities, and community projects provided Scots with the opportunity to work with others toward common goals—winning teams . . . top variety shows . . . and outstanding plays. These activities gave students the needed variation in their education. This helped students to make life at Highland a successful venture in preparation for future life in the community.

Seniors capture honors at homecoming

Gray skies and damp weather didn't hamper the excitement of homecoming '69', as the stands were filled with students, parents, and alumni. Despite a muddy field, the Scots were cheered to a 30-2 victory over the Mt. Vernon Marauders. Halftime activities, under the direction of Student Council, included the traditional parade of cars and floats, and another superb performance by the Marching Highlanders.

Homecoming officially began a week before the "big day". During this week, classes frantically constructed their floats for judging. Careful planning and ingenuity payed off for the seniors as they captured first place in the float competition.

Nancy Mayer also honored the senior class when she was crowned homecoming queen for 1969. Junior Rhonda Skinner, Sophomore Cathy Hosier, and Freshman Teresa Daoust rounded out Nancy's court.

Homecoming was topped off with a dance featuring the "Giraffe Winterfield". One of the highlights of the evening was the queen's dance in which Queen Nancy was accompanied by her escort, Toby Hopkins. As the dance ended, Homecoming '69' was brought to a close, to rest only in the minds of the students.

"Winter Wonderland" sets seasonal mood

A romantic wintery evening provided an excellent atmosphere for a "Winter Wonderland". The dance was held on December 20, from 8-11 in the multi-purpose room and featured the "Black and Blues", from Muncie.

Student Council dance chairman, Marcia Hanes, appointed several committees to assist in the planning of the dance. One of these committees, established to plan the decorations, did an excellent job of creating an illusive, Christmas-like atmosphere for the dance.

The center of the room was enhanced with a fifteen foot white Christmas tree, which was ornamented in blue and gold. Five smaller trees were placed individually on each of the basketball goals. A sleigh and a three-tiered punch bowl added attractive interest to the atmosphere of the room. Also, candle-lit tables provided moments of relaxation for the couples.

Student Council was pleased with the dance and decided to make it an annual event. The dance began a tradition to be remembered by those in attendance and to be looked forward to by others for years to come.

'Matchmaker' features Highland talent

The evenings of March 5 and 6 set the scene for Thornton Wilder's "The Matchmaker", presented by the Highland Dramatics Club. This light-hearted farce of human behavior is the stage version of "Hello Dolly".

Horace Vandergelder, portrayed by Hal Van Metre, was a gruff man of sixty, who owned a mercantile store in Yonkers, New York. Dolly Levi, portrayed by Karen Knight was the matchmaker. Vandergelder believed that Dolly was helping him find a suitable bride, but she was really cleverly arranging a match between him and herself, and succeeded at the end of the play.

The stage crew of a play has always been a very important, yet often overlooked part of a production. Terry Spaulding and Jim Caddell did an excellent job as stage managers for the play.

The sets were done in flashy and vivid colors, to carry out the mood of the play. Lisa Norris, Bill Parrish, and Elaine Durham combined their artistic talent to paint very beautiful sets for "The Matchmaker".

Director Mr. Ronald Clark and Student Director Tom Shaeffer were very proud of both the cast and the crew of "The Matchmaker". The play drew a record breaking crowd on both nights of its performance and was delightfully accepted by those in attendance.

Hal Van Metre gets a free shave in "The Matchmaker".

All male cast in "Twelve Angry Men"

The Highland Dramatics Club presented Reginald Rose's "Twelve Angry Men", on November 21 and 23, at eight and two o'clock, respectively. This two act play takes place in the jury room of a courthouse, where the all-male jury has been deliberating on a murder case.

All of the jurors voted guilty, except for juror number eight, who was portrayed by Leonard Sharp. With ingenious clues, Leonard, juror number eight, finally managed to convince all of the jurors that the man on trial was innocent. The last juror to be convinced was juror number three, Jeff Crosley, whose stubborn nature almost destroyed him.

"Twelve Angry Men" was an intensely dramatic production, that exulted in realism. The set was designed "in the round" with the audience sitting around the set. This type of set gave the audience the sense of realism that was desired, and did not detract from the simplicity of the play.

Sectional week reflects Scot spirit

John Brunner and Jayne Porter are crowned Mr. Plaid and Miss White.

Spirit and excitement filled the halls and classrooms as Scots anxiously began sectional week activities. Sectional week was "kicked off" with a bonfire and a dance, the Friday before the week began. On the following Monday, Scots aroused spirit by wearing white socks, tennis shoes, and suspenders. Tuesday was "Band 'em Day", when all Highlanders wore plaid arm bands, with a "V" for victory. As dictated by Highland tradition, the day of the game was "Plaid and White Day". Mr. Plaid and Miss White were chosen for their original costumes, at the afternoon pep session.

During the pep session, several skits were performed by the various classes, and yells were led by the cheerleaders. The spirit stick was awarded to the senior class, for their overall enthusiasm during sectional week. All of these activities "fired up" the Scots, which resulted in a thrilling victory over the Alexandria Tigers that night.

Thursday was "Hat Day" at Highland and on Friday, Scots carried out the theme, "Sweat out an overall victory," symbolized by the girls wearing sweatshirts and the boys wearing overalls. Another pep session was held Friday afternoon to prepare for the game with Madison Heights on Saturday afternoon. At this pep session, several skits were given and the Sophomore class presented each varsity player with a long stemmed rose as a token of "good luck".

This time the team received the coveted spirit stick for their victory over the Tigers, and their strong desire to beat the Pirates. A car caravan led the Scots to the Wigwam where the Scot team fought a hard battle against the Pirates, only to be defeated in a tense and exhausting game.

"Music from the Broadway Musicals"

On March 13 and 14, at 8:00 P.M., a fanfare was struck, the curtains parted, and the 1970 Plaid and White Revue was underway. The show was opened by the band and majorettes with "Dear World." The four senior majorettes were each featured this year: Marji Miller in "Man of La Mancha," Kenetta Swetnam in "My Fair Lady," Virginia Barnes in "Ballet for Jazz," and Peggy Summers in the love theme from "Romeo and Juliet."

Several outstanding numbers performed by the concert band were "Camelot," "Pussillanamous Pussycat," and a Scottish song, "Lutzow's Wild Hunt." The Swinging Scots gave their renditions of "Can't Take My Eyes Off of You," "What Do You Get When You Fall in Love?" and "Where Am I going?" Highland's unique Pipe and Drum Corp was featured in a display of "Scottish tradition."

The show was brought to a close in a stirring manner as the band played "America the Beautiful" while Master of Ceremonies, Mr. James Abraham, recited the Pledge of Allegiance. The traditional "Yankee Doodle Boy," then, ended Plaid and White for another year.

Choral department presents Music Man

The concert choir brought Music Man, Highland's first musical, to life on April 16 and 17 in the Highland gymnasium. An excellent portrayal of Professor Harold Hill and Marian Paroo, the lead characters, was done by juniors Mike Pitcher and Jacque Jarrett. These players supported by 60 cast members made "Music Man" well worth the hours needed for the production.

Orchestration was provided by several members of the band, conducted by band director Mr. Callison and costuming was placed under Mrs. Sumner's supervision. Mr. Murr and his shop classes constructed the sets for "Music Man", while programs were printed by Mr. Reeder's office practice class. Assisting with the ushering, selling refreshments, tickets, and helping with makeup were the Girl's Glee Club and Highland Singers.

Marian finally expresses her love for the Music Man.

Juan Carlos attends Highland and Bobbye Pahls visits Ecuador

Highland students opened their hearts to welcome Juan Carlos Ferraris, the AFS student from San Francisco, Argentina. Holly and Mike Pierce, the official student host and hostess, helped Juan adjust to his new American home. Juan blended into the rest of the student body by being an active member in Spanish Club, Honor Society, and Drama Club. He received the opportunity to display his acting ability when he was chosen as a cast member in the play, "Twelve Angry Men".

Highland's view of South America was broadened through the eyes of Bobbye Pahls, who visited Ecuador during the summer months of 1969. Bobbye spent her two months in Ecuador with Lily Monterdeoca and her Family. Both Bobbye and Juan's exchanges were made possible through the work of American Field Service.

An exciting atmosphere was created at the All-Publications Banquet when Marcia Hanes, editor of the 1970 Highlander, crowned senior, Cathy Roundtree as Miss Highlander. The crowning took place at Linder's on May 12, 1970. Included in Cathy's court were Terry Toole, junior; Cathy Hosier, sophomore; and Cathy Swain, freshman. Twenty-nine members of the various staffs were inducted into Quill and Scroll and other outstanding staff members were honored at this banquet.

Convos provide useful enlightenment

Band members display lasting spirit during pep sessions.

The traditional Easter, Thanksgiving, and Christmas convos were held again this year. "Strings and Things", a group from Anderson College, performed at the Easter convo. They contributed a musical change from the traditional convo. Several pep sessions, alive with spirit, illustrated by humorous skits, and enthusiasm, filled the gymnasium with cheers and laughter.

Scots were entertained by a humorous gymnast who demonstrated many uses of the trampoline, using a few students as "guinea pigs". The band sponsored convo, featuring the Ball State Symphony, added to the students' cultural development.

Convocations to recognize student achievement were held at various times throughout the year. The highlight of the year was the traditional awards convocation held in May, which brought honor to both junior and senior high students. Special convos were also held to recognize athletic achievement.

Clubs end season with year-end banquets

It has become a tradition at Highland for organizations to hold year-end banquets. The Student Council banquet was held at the San Fransisco, May 18th. The highlights of the evening were the presentation of gifts to graduating seniors, their farewell speeches, and the introduction of next year's officers.

Honor Society held it's banquet at Linder's on May 11th. Recognition of the Seniors and the induction of new officers were the main events. Entertainment was provided by "Mike and Mike".

Linder's was also the sight of the annual band banquet. Awards were given to outstanding band members and director, Mr. Callison, spoke briefly about the accomplishments made during the year.

The language department held an International Party in the multi-purpose room on May 7th. Attending along with Highland language students and Juan Carlos Ferraris, Highland's foreign exchange student, were 25 other foreign exchange students from Indiana high schools.

The All-Publications Banquet was held May 12th at Linder's. After the Yearbook Queen was crowned, the induction of members into Quill and Scroll took place, and other outstanding members of the Tartan, Echoes, and Yearbook staffs were recognized.

Guests register at the gateway to paradise.

Lovely girls, attired in their beautiful gowns, and escorted by their favorite beaus danced among palm trees, fountains and waterfalls. Such was the atmosphere of the 1970 Junior-Senior Prom, "Paradise, Hawaiian Style", held May 15, 9:00 to 12:00, by the Junior class for the graduating class of 1970.

Three pretty Junior candidates, Carole Campbell, Terry Toole, and Rhonda Skinner awaited the moment for the crowning of the prom queen to take place. At 11:00, Junior class president, Jerry Young, announced that vivacious Terry Toole was the 1970 prom queen.

Ten sophomore girls, attired in grass skirts and sarongs, registered guests and served refreshments, while music was provided by "The Ritual".

Highland's cross-country team was led to a 1-6 season by first year coach, Mr. Brian Hildebrand. The Scots, however, placed sixth, out of eight places, at the Yorktown Invitational. Randy Collins, Captain, and Jeff Farr were the leading runners for the lads. Sophomores Larry Swindell and Lee Dixon came on strong near the end of the season to produce added depth.

The reserve team, with a regular season record of 1-2, showed outstanding improvement at the Yorktown Invitational where they placed first. Larry Swindell and Lee Dixon placed third and tenth respectively.

Coach Reynolds institutes unique ideas

The Highland, combined varsity and reserve, football team led by coach Pete Reynolds had a rewarding season with a record of 5-5. This was coach Reynolds first year at Highland, however, the team soon found his Michigan tactics right at home. Another first was the "Most Valuable Player" award, which consisted of a miniature football displaying the signatures of all the players. These winners were selected by fellow team members after victory games. A favorite saying of the coaches, "The Worm Will Turn," gave the Scots an added boost of morale, and became a team motto for the season.

The Scots kicked off the season with a quick win over Taylor. The following week they slipped by Hamilton Heights with a 15-11 victory, only to be trounced eight days later by the Madison Heights Pirates with a score of 52-0. The Reynolds men came back to defeat Frankton 14-8. As the season progressed the Scots fell to Tipton, Pendleton, Mississinewa, and Alexandria. Mt. Plagued by defeat the Frosh displayed hustle, determination, and gained experience which aided them throughout the season. The two wins came over Mississinewa and Central by sufficient margins. Midway through the season Highland tied Pendleton 6-6, in a hard fought cross-town battle. The Laddies finished the season by losing to Madison Heights, Alexandria, South Side, and North Side.

Varsity wrestlers end season with 7-1-4

Highland's wrestling team in its fourth season, had a winning record of, 7-1-4, under the direction of Coach Ron Ruby. The Scots won seven meets all by a margin of at least seventeen points. The one tie was with a tough Mississinewa team in a 23-23 standoff. Three of the four losses came consecutively with Hamilton Heights, Pendleton, and Elwood.

Several members of the squad received special recognition for their outstanding efforts. Kent Kreegar, who won first place in the White River Conference meet, was defeated only twice throughout the season. Steve Andis and Steve Vanderluit were elected honorary captains. ## Scots strive to endure disappointing season,

The 1969-1970 varsity basketball team, coached by Mr. Dick Mitchell, ended a second losing season with an 8-13 record. Although lacking in height and experience, the Scots displayed confidence, coordination, and hustle. Highland's first win of the season came over an arch-rival, Frankton, by a 35 point margin. Dual losses to Madison Heights and Yorktown were followed by a triple winning streak over Mississinewa, Mt. Vernon, and Madison Grant. The laddies then encountered seven losses in a row. With spirits not yet completely dampened, the Scots came back to win three of the last four encounters. One of the three was with Hamilton Heights in a 81-79 nerve racking overtime. Tourney records were just as disappointing as the season record. At the sectional the Alex Tigers fell to the hopeful and enthusiastic Scots; however, Madison Heights downed the lads in the semi-final round.

Gary Morris takes advantage of an opportunity, and drives on his opponent.

Leading the varsity team were seniors Bill Dickerson and Toby Hopkins. Dickerson, who was named to the all conference team, set a new school scoring record of 38 points, and later broke his old record with a new one of 43 points. Hopkins, a newcomer at Highland, was the team's leading rebounder and a starter on the All Sectional team which was picked by the Anderson Newspaper. Gary Morris, Frank Robinette, Mike Gentry, and Randy Douglas were four other seniors that gave a full effort for the team. Juniors, Don Bale and Jim Kerr, were starters who saw plenty of first five action. Because of his unusual abilities, sophomore Larry Swindell was moved up to a varsity position toward the end of the season.

Reserves have 5th winning season

The reserve basketball team produced a 5th winning season in succession. Coached by Mr. John Boyer, the Scots, until this year had not been defeated on their home floor for 2½ years. An 18 game winning streak was also broken early in the season. Injuries and promotions to varsity plagued the team; however, they managed to pull out a 10-9 season record. In overtime battles with Winchester and Lapel the Scots won both games by 4 points and 6 points, respectively.

Freshmen have 6-7 season

Bill Fredericks sees trouble and passes to a teammate.

Mr. Robert Stecher, new to Highland this year, coached the Freshman basketball team to a respectable 6-7 record. The Frosh started out the season with two losses to Pendleton and Fairmount. A pair of wins over Frankton and Alexandria boosted the team's desire for victory; however, a scorching double overtime proved to be too much for the Scots as they fell to North Side by two points. In the remainder of the season, the Scots won four out of seven games.

WRC honors relinquished to fourth place

The golf team coached by Mr. Dick Mitchell and assisted by Mr. John Maryan had a very successful season with a record of 6-2-1. They started the season with wins over Elwood and Mt. Vernon. The one tie came on their own course at Grandview in a meet with Pendleton. They coasted by Lapel, Alexandria, Yorktown, and Sheridan to compile all of their wins. Having a record of 6-1 they were defeated by two cross-town rivals, Madison Heights and Anderson by 11 strokes and 5 strokes respectively, in their last two meets.

Mike Gentry, the only senior on the team, was selected as the honorary captain. The majority of the team members were juniors consisting of Don Bale, Mike Davis and Jeff Farr. The number one man, a sophomore, Rod Windlan, had scores consistently of par and under par.

Diamondmen face nine game losing streak

Highland's baseball team had a very disappointing season with a record of 0-9. If good, close games counted on the score books, the Scots record would have looked more impressive. First year coach, Mr. Bob Stecher had a young team, composed of mostly underclassmen. There were only four seniors and four juniors while the other twelve were freshmen and sophomores. Although all games were lost, the experience and pleasure made the season worthwhile.

The Highland track team coached by Mr. John Boyer and Mr. Pete Reynolds had a very disappointing season. Not used to loosing in past seasons, the team struggled to get a set of wins over Wes-Del, Elwood, and Mississinewa. One of four seniors, Randy Collins, and John Kerr were not held back because of losing scores as they set new records in the two mile run and high jump respectively.

Pendleton and Northside in the next pair of meets ruined their hopes of a defeatless season. With a 2-2 record the Scots finished the season with wins over Frankton and Yorktown. In the Conference meet Highland placed second out of eight teams.

John Kerr set a new conference highjump record of five feet nine inches. John Campbell also set a new conference record in the 880 yard run at two minutes eleven seconds. Campbell then broke his conference record and set a new school record of two minutes eight seconds. Randy Looper set a new school record in the 100 yard dash at 10.6 seconds and in the 440 at 55.6 seconds.

To display their pride, each member purchased a navy blue windbreaker with Highland H-Club printed on the front. Pride in the football and basketball teams was encouraged by the team picture sales.

Traditional red and black jackets were also worn by many of the H-Club members; however, these jackets represented an athletics involvement in sports. To earn a red jacket a Scotsman had to letter by participating in one sport. Twenty members received a red jacket for their accomplishments. A black jacket required eight varsity letters in four years of high school. Bill Dickerson and Gary Morris were the two H-Club members who qualified for the honor.

Marching Highlanders display talents as they entertain the community in the Veteran's Day parade.

The distinguished Marching Highlanders began their year in August by placing third at the Delaware County Fair. Placing third, however, after three consecutive first place wins was very disappointing to the Highlanders and their fans. The band, under the direction of Mr. Hugh Callison, persistently worked hard and were able to earn a third place rating at the very competitive Indiana State Fair. Mrs. Lou Ann Young, served as choreographer for the majorettes, a position which she has held for nine years. Drum Majors, Leslie Buker and Jim Caddell, aided by head majorette, Marji Miller, marched proudly at the head of the band, with the help of assistant majorettes, Peggy Summers and Kenetta Swetnam.

Renowned Highlanders continue to march

The Highlanders continued the year by presenting their state fair routine during Band Day at Ball State and Purdue Universities. Cheering crowds greeted the Highlanders as they entertained at home football and basketball games, through their respective seasons. The band also performed at the Anderson College Homecoming and the Veteran's Day Parade.

This year the Highland band had the honor of presenting the famous "Glen Miller Band," directed by Buddy de Franco, in concert. The performance was held on February 17, in the Highland gymnasium.

The annual "Plaid and White Revue" was presented on March 13 and 14. The year's Revue carried out the theme, "Music of the Broadway Musicals." This was the first Revue for director Hugh Callison, and was very well performed and received by the audience.

The successful career of the 1970 senior band members was terminated by the band's performance at the 500 Festival Parade, in May. Freshman band members made their first appearance when the band marched at the Chesterfield Day Celebration of July Fourth.

The traditional Pipe and Drum Corp take a refreshing break during an exhausting practice session.

Many hours of summer practice are necessary for the development of a perfect marching routine.

Voices reflect melody and mood

Highland Singers, Glee Club, and Concert Choir joined together to form the Choral Department, directed by Mrs. Lucille Buck. Throughout the year they proved to be both active and inspirational as they became involved in convocations, concerts and contests.

The Highland Singers "kicked off" the choral season by presenting a concert and musical school assembly entitled, "Buck's Rubbish." This successful venture inspired other concerts throughout the season. The Singers also carolled to the patients of several nursing homes in the community during the Christmas holiday. The Singers displayed their varied talents by winning first place in the district contest; and they received first place ratings in the state contest at Ben Davis High School in Indianapolis.

The Concert Choir and Glee Club performed at the Thanksgiving and Christmas convocations. On March 19, they participated in the Choral Festival at Pendleton Heights High School. The "Music Man," was presented by the Concert Choir as the first Broadway musical ever performed at Highland. This musical was a big success and was greatly enjoyed by the audience.

between students and administration

The coat check provides convenience for basketball fans.

Rendering services to the school, and building communication between the student body, faculty, and administration were the major functions of the Student Council. The Student Assembly homeroom presidents analyzed student needs and presented them before the Council in an effort to improve communication. This year's Council was presided over by President, Dale Roby. Assisting Dale was Debbie Leduc, Vice President, who also presided over Student Assembly; Peggy Summers, Secretary; and Jeff Hollon, who served as treasurer.

A new tradition established at Highland this year, was a Christmas dance with the theme, "Winter Wonderland." The Student Council also attempted to provide a second annual Ceilyh Festival, however, due to lack of student support, it was necessary to cancel the dance.

Other activities of the Council included the production and distribution of the Plaid-a-log, Highland's student directory. The Council also operated a coat check at the basketball games and organized Homecoming and Sectional weeks. Student Assembly, sponsored by Mr. James Abraham, continued their "Scot Pride" project from last year by reconstructing the walkway leading to the flag. Student Council was sponsored by Mrs. Dorothy Parker, Mr. Robert Reeder, and Mr. Deloris Martin.

Art Club and Honor Society travel to

The Art Club was revived this year to promote creativity at Highland High School. This club had not been in existence since 1967. Mrs. Peggy Richards sponsored the club and Randy Collins presided as president.

One of the activities of the art club was an exhibit displayed in the front hall during the performances of "The Matchmaker." The major event of the year was a field trip to Chicago where the club visited the Art Institute, the Chicago Academy of Fine Arts, and the American Academy of Art.

Creative ability is displayed in sketches done by Lisa Norris.

Chicago's Art Centers and museums

"To create enthusiasm for scholarship, to stimulate a desire to render service, to promote worthy leadership, and to encourage the development of character in students of Highland High School," was the purpose of the Ben Nevis Chapter of the National Honor Society sponsored by Mrs. Lucille Kinsey and Mr. Larry Forrest.

Activities began with the annual tapping ceremonies in October. Those selected students were officially initiated at an induction service which followed later. Old acquaintances found the multi-purpose room inviting during the Homecoming reception sponsored by the Honor Society. The last event for the honor students was a trip to the Museum of Science and Industry in Chicago on May 1. Unusual displays fascinated the students during their tour.

The result of being tapped into Honor Society is a warm welcome by the faculty.

Future Teachers of America was a club formed for students with the ambition of entering the teaching profession as a career. F.T.A. was sponsored by Mr. Marvin Atkins, who helped demonstrate the responsibility associated with teaching. The majority of the members were cadet teachers who taught in classes at Highland and surrounding elementary schools.

The Science Club concerned itself with students who had an interest in the field of science and technology. The major project for the year was the construction of a lazer beam under the direction of their sponsor, Mr. John Maryan. The project required approximately three weeks to complete and consisted of many technical parts which produced over 2000 volts. The club had a second project of lesser involvement but of major importance; during Sectional week, the Club was responsible for conjuring a very noisy victory potion in hopes of contributing to a Scot victory.

The Future Farmers of America came through again this year with several high ratings in judging contests for soil, crops, poultry, dairy, forestry, and livestock. First place in soil judging were: Jeff Farr, Jim Kerr, Dale Stinson, and Tom Wicks. Another annual activity of F.F.A. was the intramural basketball team, which was more social than agricultural. Future Farmers of America was sponsored this year by Mr. James Taylor.

Foreign language love flowers raise

The slave auction is traditional at the Roman banquet.

The foreign language department consisted of Spanish, French, and Latin clubs sponsored by Mrs. Mildred Taylor, Mrs. Barbara Porter, and Mrs. Dorothy Parker, respectively. Food and clothing for needy families and love flower sales to raise funds for International Day were the two major projects of the Clubs.

May 7 was an important day for language students as they played host to 26 foreign exchange students, who were visiting families all over Indiana. International Day was highlighted by the guests visiting classes, and was finalized by an all-school convocation at which Juan Carlos Ferrares, Highland's exchange student made his farewell address to Highland High School students. Later in the evening the hosts and their guests were entertained at an international party in the multipurpose room.

Cheerleaders boost seasonal spirit

Summer cheerleading camp sparked the beginning of a pep-filled year. Varsity cheerleaders Marty Clark, Pam Daoust, Carole Campbell, and Rhonda Skinner, supervised by Miss Hanes, devoted part of their summer vacation to the refinement and expansion of their skills. Training included a workshop at Indiana University, and the U.S.C.A. camp where they received second and fourth place awards for teamwork and appearance. They gained experience in the execution of chants, yells, and skits. Through dedication and hard work the cheerleaders helped maintain a high level of Scot Spirit throughout the year.

The Pep Club, under the sponsorship of Mrs. Sumner, added color and enthusiasm to the spirit of Highland. Throughout the season, they backed the basketball team through victory and defeat. Ribbons were purchased and sold all season to boost the spirit of the team. Sectional week proved to be the final drive for spirit as the role of the cheerleaders ended.

The inspirational influence of the spirit stick is reflected in the varied expressions of Pep Club members.

GAA completed their year of activities by participating in golfing at a local golf center.

Enthusiastic underclass cheerleaders helped to keep spirit high for their teams through a year of victory and defeat. The reserve cheerleaders proved to have great talent as they received first place awards and recognition at summer camp and the Madison County Cheerleading competition. To add to these accomplishments, Kimi Young was voted as the outstanding cheerleader of Madison County. The girls also worked hand-in-hand with the varsity squad by planning and participating in pep sessions and sectional week.

The freshman squad also had a very successful year. Even though the attendance at games was low, the three girls boosted their team on to a winning season!

Bowling, golfing, and swimming were just a few of the many sports enjoyed by the athletically-minded girls of GAA. The officers this year were: Pres.—Jill Conrad, Vice-pres.—Patty Kell, Sec.—Brenda Closser, Treas.—Janet Bodkin, Sports—Patty Bertram, Teresa Wilson. The sponsors were: Mrs. Kelso, and Mrs. McCarty.

Initiation into GAA was held May 4th in the Multi-Purpose Room. Girls receiving jackets for a total of 300 points were Janet Bodkin, Jill Conrad, Brenda Closser, Annette Davis and Cindy Stookey.

Dramatics club stages two productions

This year's Drama Club set a new trend by presenting two productions. The fall presentation, "Twelve Angry Men" was presented November 20, 21. The plot centered around the transaction of a jury determining the future of a boy's life. The spring presentation, "The Match Maker" was presented March 5 and 6. The play was a form of farcial comedy centered on the title! Both productions were directed by the sponsor, Ron Clark, with Tom Shaffer as student director in "The Match Maker."

The best actor and actress awards were received by Hal Van Metre, Karen Knight, Cathy Roundtree, and Leonard Sharp. The recipient of the Outstanding Senior Award was Hal Van Metre who also received the outstanding Thespian Award which is the highest drama award to be given to a Highland student.

Service clubs and bowl team offer social

Several clubs served the school while providing students with the opportunity to participate in academic and social activities. Sponsored by Kiwanis International, Highland's Key Club was organized by Mr. Ronald Brown, and sponsored by Mr. Brizendine. The main purpose of this club was to create initiative and leadership. The Health Club was active this year in assisting with the tuberlin tests. They were sponsored by the school nurse, Mrs. Ruth Bahler. The American Red Cross Chapter of Highland served the community with charitable projects such as helping needy families with food and clothing. The Library Club's main function was to provide the classrooms with visual aids and library assistance. The club was sponsored by the school librarians, Mrs. Janet Bowen and Mrs. Patricia Winn.

A relatively new opportunity in Madison County was the High School Bowl. An academic bowl team has, however, been active at Highland for the past few years. Not organizing until January, the 1970 team had only three meets—two with Elwood and one with Madison Heights—all of which were lost. Even with a losing record, the team members, highly motivated, encouraged other schools to participate.

More than 100 students were actively involved in the publications department this year as they strove to inform, influence, and entertain the student body through The Tartan, newspaper; The Highlander, yearbook; and Echoes, the literary magazine.

The loft, overlooking the auto mechanics room, was the headquarters for all activities. Mr. Robert Reeder accepted the responsibility of sponsoring the newspaper and also advised members of the yearbook staff. Providing the necessary leadership needed to produce "All-American" publications were Marcia Hanes, editor of "The Highlander" and Pat Sharp and Verlia Stephens, co-editors of "The Tartan." The literary magazine, "Echoes '70", moved into its third year under editor Nancy DeBolt. Mrs. Sandra Clark and Miss Linda Trout were the advisors.

Highland's outstanding journalists were honored for their efforts on May 12, at the first annual All-Publications Banquet held at Linders. Twenty-six juniors and seniors earned the right to be inducted into the International Quill and Scroll, Honorary Society. Janet Bodkin, Bobbye Pahls and Nancy DeBolt were given awards of distinction from the Society for their work. The banquet was a fitting climax to a highly successful year.

Coordinating school activities involves a mutual

Mr. Dale Prough, superintendent, keeps in contact with Mr. Davis, principal, on the problems and needs of Highland High School.

Administrators, faculty, and other supervisory personnel were faced with many unique problems as a new decade began. Discussions between students and adults revealed various opinions on school policy. Dress code, hair length, discipline, and academic pursuits were the most frequently debated topics during the school year.

Mounting pressure required a great amount of understanding from the counseling staff, including Mr. Keith Davis, Mr. Marvin Atkins, and Mrs. Betty McCarty. Guidance in choosing college careers, testing potential abilities, and giving personal advice were all a part of the counselors' obligation to the student body.

Highland was under the supervision of principal, Mr. Mulford Davis. Mr. Davis coordinated school functions to provide an eventful year for the student body. The assistant principals were Mr. Myrneh Richman and Mr. Allen Meyerrose. Mr. Meyerrose served as athletic director and was responsible for student scheduling. Dean of boys, Mr. Richman, was also in charge of the management of ticket sales. The administrative staff and faculty combined their efforts to create a fine educational system at Highland High School.

Final decisions on Highland school policy were made by the Metropolitan School Board. Devoted Members allotted money for Highland's educational needs. Mr. Dale Prough, superintendent of the board, helped to coordinate pressing matters between the Highland administration and the Board of Trustees.

The Board of Trustees of the Metropolitan School District approves and admires Highland's new library facilities. ## Ideas are expressed in Creative Arts

Several weeks of hectic practice are rewarded with an excellent performance at the annual "Plaid and White Revue."

Highland is fortunate to have librarians, Mrs. Winn and Mrs. Bowen, both with a B.S. in Education. Respectively, they attended Austen Peay State and Ball State Universities.

Mrs. Jordan is busy between classes selling supplies to students.

Service personnel perform needed tasks

The success of Highland was determined by the efficiency of the nonteaching personnel. The students had access to school supplies by the bookstore clerk, Mrs. Jordan, and were cared for medically by the nurse, Mrs. Bahler, and the office clerk, Mrs. Ashby. Mrs. Bowen and Mrs. Winn, librarians, have aided students on term papers, reports, and projects. Added coordination to school business was given by the secretarial staff, Mrs. Sylvester and Mrs. Kreegar. The bus drivers delivered 90% of the student body to and from school everyday. The custodians, "unsung heroes", worked on day and night shifts to provide for the upkeep and cleanliness of the school. Daily meals were planned and prepared by Mrs. Hostetler, dietician, and cooks.

Vision tests, administered by Mrs. Bahler, school nurse, are an essential part of Highland's testing program.

Secretaries, Mrs. Sylvester and Mrs. Kreegar, and clerk, Mrs. Ashby, work to make school business run smoothly.

Students

A twinge of excitement . . . eyes that twinkle when a grin appears . . . faces that reflect Scot spirit . . . rented tuxedos and wilted corsages . . . strangers that discover warmth in new found friendships . . . broken hearts and abandoned dreams . . . the life of Students.

Taking the spotlight, as was the case many times in his six years at Highland, president Gary Morris promises a Scot victory.

Proving his abilities as a valuable asset to the Scot cause, as well as vice president of the class, is Randy Douglas.

New decade challenges largest

The class of "70" returned for a final year of Scottish tradition. Their senior year was a fitting climax to a career of accumulated successes. Senior scholastic accomplishments were evident in such students as Becky Dusenberry, Valedictorian, and Bobbye Pahls, Salutatorian. Many other final year students excelled in athletic, service and artistic pursuits. Therefore, Highland felt the influence of her upperclassmen as they efficiently captained major organizations.

The seniors captured Homecoming laurels as their float, "A Giant Leap to Victory," and senior queen candidate carried away the honors. Social diversion was found in such events as the Christmas Dance, soc-hops, and of course, the prom. Wishing to leave a remembrance, the class repaired the monument in front of the building. The traditional senior week activities were held during the week following graduation exercises.

The progressing year brought graduation, baccalaureate and commencement, into a focused reality. Seniors graduated into a new decade and an eager future. Rich memories, traditions, and friends added to the long awaited occasion which eased the transition from student to graduate.

Bobbye Pahls displays abilities far greater than those needed as class secretary, on the yearbook staff.

Working as library assistant as well as filling the position of senior class treasurer is Claudia York.

Senior yearbook staffers show a myriad of reactions to a final deadline.

Six years of accumulated successes

The traditional pomp and circumstance of baccalaureate and commencement was strictly adhered to as every member of the class realized that this was the last time they would sit in the Highland gymnasium as a student. Keynote addresses were presented by the Rev. Harold Clark of the Chesterfield Christian Church and Dr. Robert H. Reardon, president of Anderson College. The valedictorian and salutatorian spoke of a provocative tomorrow beckoning their classmates. The graduating class attentively listened as they prepared to take their initial steps into a demanding, rewarding future.

result in fond memories to cherish

I am walking, slowly—
Possibly even a bit reverently
Down the empty hall.
My footsteps echo loudly
Throughout the silent corridor.
With each resounding step
Comes one of the many
Memories of the past six years
I have carefully stored away
For just such a time.
Hesitating slightly, I gaze
Into one of the bare classrooms.
How many hours did I
Spend in such a room
Endeavoring to become
A wiser, more knowledgeable person?
The empty gymnasium
Reminds me of the feelings
I had when the Scots lost
A basketball game.
But with little trouble
I can easily recall the yells of delight
We all shared in victory.
The deserted cafeteria
Reminds me of the
Many times I complained
About the lunches
We Were served.
But if that is the worst
I will ever have to Complain about,
I shall consider
Myself very lucky.
A look at a trophy case
Laden with many rewards
Beckons me to recall
The many friends
I have made and their
Rewarding friendships;
The bitterness of betrayal
And those closed in
Feelings of total frustration.
Yes, the six years
I have spent growing
Physically, emotionally,
And mentally at HHS
Have quickly come and passed
Resembling the sands in An hour glass.
Thus far, I have Reached my goal and
Though I may never see
The inside of these walls again,
I will always remember and
Cherish the proud heritage I
Shared as a HIGHLANDER.

Juniors make "big getaway" with record-

Determined juniors surpassed the selling skills of previous classes and totaled a record-breaking sum of $7299.80 in the annual magazine campaign. The money they received provided for an excellent prom in May, and supplied the class of 1971 with funds for graduation activities. Jim Swain received top honors when he moved out in front as leading salesman.

"Scots Make the BIG Getaway" was the theme of the junior class homecoming float, a reconstructed relic taken straight from the Bonnie and Clyde era. The float, a flower-covered antique car, won second place and added a colorful touch to the homecoming parade. The junior member of the homecoming queen court was Rhonda Skinner, who was escorted by senior Steve Ritchie.

The Ben Nevis Chapter of the National Honor Society selected 18 juniors for induction in October. Students chosen from the largest class composed the majority of those tapped during the all school convocation.

"Paradise Hawaiian Style" was chosen by the class as the theme for the 1970 Prom. An exotic island atmosphere was created amidst a profusion of leis, palm trees, seashells, and native princesses.

At the last awards convocation of the year, anxious juniors made the traditional move over to the senior section of the gym in anticipation of their final year.

Prom committee members decide on appropriate decorations.

Autumn reflects Scottish tradition with Sophs

Dressed in chocolate brown class jackets and sweaters, sophomores became involved in the annual activities that mark the beginning of the school year. This apparel made football weather seem milder and provided protection against chilly autumn evenings as the sophomores constructed their homecoming float. A rickety old spook house portrayed their theme "No Spirit Like Scot Spirit." Steve Fredericks escorted Cathy Hosier, the sophomore homecoming queen candidate.

Basketball pep sessions found the sophomores vying for the coveted spirit stick. Talented Pam McWithey's characterization of an uncouth telephone operator, and numerous other sophomore skits reflected the enthusiasm of the class. The class of '72 confirmed its faith in Coach Mitchell's theme "We Believe" during sectional frenzy by presenting varsity team members with roses.

Class ring styles were selected by a seven-member committee. The arrival of the rings in spring highlighted the end of a year of gratifying experiences.

Looking through the door to the future, Scots Linda Hiles and Jeff Gentry wear class reminders.

Freshmen accept float building task and

Caught up in the pace of high school life, freshmen adapted to their new responsibilities and privileges of Senior high. They learned the value of cooperation as they pooled their ideas and efforts to build their first Homecoming float, entitled "We're Expecting a Big Victory." Although the float did not rank high in the competition, it displayed the freshmen's ability to accomplish a major project through group participation. Teresa Daoust, escorted by John Campbell, was their queen candidate.

The freshman class achieved recognition in various ways through the school year. During sectional week Jayne Porter was awarded the title of "Miss White." Cheryl Scharnowske was named by Honor Society as the Outstanding Freshman. The accomplishments of these students and their classmates constituted a profitable first year in senior high.

Eighth grade voices are heard in Council

With an attitude of confidence, eighth graders returned to another year of frenzied junior high life. During the year many activities kept the junior high Scots busy. They elected officers and representatives for student council to serve the class. Various sports brought out enthusiastic boys, and faithful classmates to back them. Students also spent valuable extra time in putting out their own junior high newspaper and literary magazine to display their talents.

A highlight of the year was the annual Miss Heather contest. The eighth grade was well represented by two vivacious members of their class—Melanie Bronnenberg and Diana West. Many eighth graders, in order to become better acquainted with their friends, took advantage of the sock hops that were exclusively for the junior high. Looking ahead to their Freshman year, eighth graders began thinking about what courses they would be taking in high school as they prepared for their immediate and distant future.

Seventh graders make a quick adjustment

Learning responsibility was the main goal that challenged the seventh grade class. The inexperienced students faced new activities and tasks as they became accustomed to a different system of education. They combined their talents with many eighth grade students in producing a junior high literary magazine and newspaper. Also, several boys participated on the newly organized junior high golf team.

Becoming true Scots, the newcomers adjusted quickly to the plaid pattern and began displaying their spirit. Seventh graders enthusiastically cheered at pep sessions, backed the varsity teams, and purchased their share of Tartans and Yearbooks. After surmounting many of the frustrations that are known to all seventh graders, the class of '75 looked forward to reigning in the upper hall next year.

Practice makes perfect for cheerleaders

Full of pep, and eager to learn the skills of cheerleading, junior high cheerleaders backed their teams with the encouragement necessary to carry them through the season. Leading the eighth graders, Melanie Bronnenberg, Christy Clark, and Cindy Skinner served their second consecutive year as cheerleaders. For the first time in Highland's history, a boy, Mickey Braden, was chosen as a cheerleader. Penny Alder, Robin Mathews, and Tracy Toole completed the seventh grade cheering squad.

April 25, 1970, marked the annual crowning of Miss Heather. Mari Ann Stofflet was awarded the title at a junior high sock hop held in the school gymnasium. The dance was a record hop with WERK disc-jockey Mike Charles acting as master of ceremonies. The three other members making up Miss Heather's court were Salli Sears, a seventh grader, and Melanie Bronnenberg and Diane West, eighth graders. Miss Heather, junior high queen for The Highlander, was honored at an all publications banquet later in the school year.

Seventh grade initiates flag football

Faced with a tough schedule, the junior high football team had trouble getting started. The young gridgers suffered a dismal season as they posted a grim 0-8 record. The best encounter of the season was the last game when the Highland junior high Scots met Anderson Central junior high, and lost by a score of 14-6.

Seventh grade boys learned gridiron skills through the organization of a flag football team. The intramural squad was coached by Jim Dillmon and John Maryan.

Junior High organizes first golf team

The junior high golf team was organized for the first time at Highland. Acting as coach, Mr. John Maryan began practicing with them in the second week of April. Out of the 37 boys that tried out for the team 9 were selected. Eighth grader Brian Alder was given top honors as the best golfer with an average of 66. Following him in second position was seventh grader Bill McCarty, who had an 80 point average. Todd Dixon, also an eighth grader, was in third place with an 81 point average. The team, which played on a course with a par of 54, showed great potential after a successful first season.

Holding top position, Brian Alder puts in many hours of practice.

Grade school experience brings results

With a year of experience behind them, many eighth grade athletes were back this year to represent their class in basketball. Through extensive practice and competition, many players refined their skills. The leading scorers for the year were Dave Jones and Mike Danforth with 7 and 6½ points per game average respectively. The team record was an unimpressive two wins and nine losses. Valuable experience, however, in mental and physical development overshadowed a disappointing season for the junior high team.

An eighth grader does his job while others prepare to further the action.

Eighth Grade Basketball Team,

Seventh Grade Basketball Team, Front Row: Managers Craig Silvey, Jeff Vollenhals, and Keith Krugler; Second Row: Jim Tumulty, Brian Sheets, Tony Roseberry, Frank Campbell, Terry Dotson, Jimmy Miller, Joey Leduc; Third Row: Tony Riley, Steve Hickman,

Victory requires practice and patience

To achieve and maintain a high level of athletic ability at Highland, instruction and competition began early. The seventh grade basketball program provided the basic training for a well balanced junior high effort and future outstanding varsity performances. Team members developed a sense of pride as they represented Highland in their first year. The seventh grade team worked diligently, and waded through tough competition to a respectable seven wins and eight losses.

Hopeful eyes and anxious hands wait for a loose ball to take its course at a seventh grade basketball game.

Smith, Mark York, Gerald Levell; Back Row: Bob Schneider, Jay Westerfield, Bill Cripe, Jim Catt, Louis Worthington, David Mock, Bart Huffman.

Sprinters end season with 4-5 season

As the track season started, the junior high division received more than it's share of tentative participants. Competition was stiff as many excited seventh graders joined their eighth grade classmates in striving to make the team. Coach Ronald Ruby had each boy participate in the area in which he excelled. The first five winners in each event were selected for the team. During the season there were eight different meets in which the team participated. After the conference meet at Frankton, they closed the season with a 4 wins, 5 losses record to end the year.

Young musicians practice and prepare

Preparing for the future was the motive of the junior high band students, who filled the bandroom with amateur musical sounds during the first period of the day. New techniques were some of their lessons, such as learning the steps for marching. As the school year progressed, Mr. Callison, band director, developed many talents among the seventh and eighth grade band members. Junior high band was divided into a 50 member seventh grade band and a 27 member training band.

Our changing patterns continue to weave an unforgettable carpet of Scot Spirit

Senior boys waste away their last day.

Anticipation lurks in the mind of an award recipient.

Vandalism at Highland began during the summer when the letters were stolen from the 1967 class gift, a memoriam cornerstone located on the southwest corner of the school property. The class of 1970 therefore donated as their gift, new letters engraved in limestone for further protection against vandalism.

Students voice their opinions democratically.

Hazy summer days begin with the completion of finals.

As the seasons revolve . . .
 . . . our plaid pattern is complete

Newly elected presidents prepare for a new year.

Acknowledgements

I would like to thank all the people involved in the production of the 1970 Highlander. My deepest appreciation goes to Mr. Reeder, our advisor, and Mr. Glaze, our Paragon representative, for their advice and guidance throughout the year. My special and sincere thanks is given to this years staff who united their creative minds and continuous effort in presenting to the students and the community, a book, which best represents this school year. I, also would like to thank all those involved, outside the staff, for their cooperation in our production and it is our greatest hope the 1970 Highlander will receive the All-American title.

The 1970 Highlander, the largest book in Madison County being printed by Paragon Press, Montgomery Alabama, followed the tradition of summer delivery. The 1000 copies of 224 pages were printed on Patina 9 x 12 paper. The body type is 10 point Caledonia with bold; the headline type is 18 and 24 point Craw Modern. The 1970 Highlander also used the Bonus Rainbow Color, which includes 10 color pictures. The cover was designed by S.K. Smith Cover Company. Senior portraits, organization pictures, and some special event pictures were taken by Mr. Ron Plum of Reid's Studio in Anderson. Underclass pictures were taken by Mr. Doyle Fox of Delmar Studio in Anderson.
